About the Project

The economy in St. Kitts and Nevis (SKN) has undergone a radical transformation during the last sixteen years, which has changed the islands' land-use patterns and pressures on its ecosystems. Sugarcane long dominated the landscape, particularly on the island of St. Kitts, but as a result of unfavourable trading terms, the industry was closed in July 2005. To diversify the economy, land use zoning has been modified to allow for non-agricultural uses of former sugarcane lands, such as the construction of homes, tourism facilities, schools, commercial & industrial sites, etc. More broadly, SKN has transitioned rapidly towards a more service-oriented economy. This rapid growth comes with sustainable development challenges, as it relates to land use planning and sustainable use of natural resources.

The project will work to conserve and rehabilitate critically endangered mangrove ecosystems and ensure that they are adequately protected, which will ensure the maintenance and increase of carbon stocks in mangroves, the conservation of biodiverse areas that play a key role in the future economy of the country, and the increased protection of SKN's coastal areas, including from climate change related impacts such as storm surges and salt water intrusion. The project will work with the Department of Marine Resources, local NGOs and CBOs to rehabilitate at least 20 hectares of mangroves. This will be done through enrichment planting of dominant species of mangrove that already occur in the area where cover has been removed through prior clearing activities. Follow-on maintenance work to ensure survivorship of plantings will be undertaken. The action plan will consider the piloting of eco-tourism concessions in mangrove areas to establish incentives for their protection. Policy makers and resource managers will have access to the action plan and the information and recommendations generated so that conservation efforts can be better targeted.

The Global Environment Facility-funded Project, Improving Environmental Management through Sustainable Land Management in St. Kitts and Nevis, aims to support SKN to address the drivers of development which have adverse impacts on land and other natural resources as a result of competing demands and reorient all sectors of the economy towards sustainable resource use policies and practices, which together can provide economic opportunities for the country's population while also sustaining ecosystem services and globally significant biodiversity. The Project Objective is to transform degraded forest landscape areas into biodiversity and climate-friendly areas of sustainable agricultural/agroforestry production.

To achieve these primary goals, the Project has three main Components:

- Component 1: Integrated and strengthened environmental planning and management on the islands of SKN to support island sustainability.

- Component 2: Mainstreaming Biodiversity (BD) conservation, Sustainable Land Management (SLM) and Climate Change Mitigation (CCM) into key development and resource management sectors; and
- Component 3: Increased awareness and understanding of issues related to SLM, BD Conservation, and Climate-Smart Agriculture (CSA).

The Global Environment Facility (GEF) with the approval of the Government of SKN (GOSKN) has selected the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP) as the Implementing Agency of the project; as well, the GOSKN has selected the International Union for Conservation of Nature Regional Office for Mexico, Central America and the Caribbean (IUCN-ORMACC) as the Executing Agency.

This TOR is issued under Component 2 of the Project, specifically output 2.1.1: Decreased soil erosion, increased carbon sequestration and agroforestry production through reforestation and Assisted Natural Regeneration.

2. OBJECTIVES OF THE CONSULTANCY
